PROJECT DESCRIPTION - MAIN AIM

Youth Exchange is related to the problem of the widespread social exclusion phenomenon. The main objective of the project is therefore to deepen the knowledge of participants about social exclusion - its causes, consequences and groups affected and even more sensitizing young people to the presence of socially excluded people in the environment.

What is more, the participants will reflect on possible ways to counteract social exclusion. An excellent opportunity for such a debate and exchange of views will be international exchange, during which young people under the guidance of experienced facilitators would take up the subject of social exclusion from the perspective of young people from countries with varying degrees of exposure to social exclusion.

The project aims at understanding the process of social inclusion and provides opportunity for young people to experience intercultural learning.

It results in gathering good examples of inclusion activities which can serve as an inspiration for further action.

The aim of the project will also be to improve the soft skills of participants through the opportunity to work in an international environment, namely such skills as speaking in public, working in groups, expressing and defending your opinion, or empathy.

METHODOLOGY

The project will be implemented using non-formal educational techniques and LEAP methodology.

Youth will:

- participate in study visit to Kraków,
- work in teams in many workshops under the eye of facilitators,
- take part in debates
- outdoor activities,
- meetings with the local community and experts.
